“To summarize our experience working with Kingdom Press, they are professional, ministry/mission focused, and are extremely passionate about pleasing their Church partners.

Ginghamburg's highest praise of Kingdom Press is the process they employ. We really appreciated the way they balanced the line between not interrupting our operations as they completed our project.

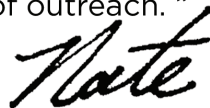

To be completely transparent, we had our hesitations with allowing an outside organization unrestricted access to some of our most influential members. However, we were very pleased with their confidentiality, approach, and representation of our church. Kingdom Press considers this a ministry, not a job.

Some recurring reflections we received from participating businesses during the process were how honored and excited they were to participate, how courteous, professional, and non-salesman like the Kingdom Press team was, and how easy it was for them to participate in the business directory.

It is our pleasure to highly recommend Kingdom Press to others who are considering this type of outreach.”
